Wet'n'Wild Sydney is committed to the responsible management of water usage, subject to local water conditions, including improving water efficiency, reducing usage of town water supplies and increasing alternative water supply and recycling of water.

The implementation of a water demand management strategy has reduced the demand for potable water and has provided technological solutions for the collection, storage and re-use of water in the most efficient and economically feasible way. This strategy has resulted in significant water savings during the construction and operation of Wet'n'Wild Sydney and has been achieved by:

- Reducing water losses, such as splash guards on rides and deck areas designed to drain water carried out of the pools back into the pool system
- Installation of water efficient fittings, such as low flow tap ware, toilets, urinals, showerheads (with button timers) and spray heads
- Installation of low water use appliances, such as dishwashers
- Installation of efficient perlite regenerative filters. This filtration technology saves more than 6.5 million litres per season compared to traditional sand filters.
- Storage, treatment and re-use of stormwater and rainwater from roofs
- Landscape design with plant zoning based on water needs
- Trees planted adjacent to water rides to provide shade and reduce water evaporation
- Installation of an efficient irrigation system
- 90% of the water required for irrigation, toilet flushing and wash down is reused water
